

A-LOCK

Securing the Power Connection for all Devices

“When we bought rack PDUs with locking receptacles, we thought we’d solved the problem – but we hadn’t. The IT equipment plugs still had to be secured. With A-LOCK, we are able to finally secure the other half of the power path.”

With the A-LOCK locking power cord, you can rest assured that your power connections will be secure. Our universally compatible locking power cords let you secure the power path between your locking rack mount PDU and your IT hardware. Zonit’s A-LOCK is designed for applications where one more locking receptacle is all that you need to ensure the reliability of your rack configuration.

A-LOCK is 100% compatible with your existing infrastructure, which means that it can be used no matter the manufacturer of your PDU or brand of your IT equipment. It also means that you can reuse existing devices without making any changes or expensive upgrades. Our patented locking mechanism allows you to secure the power connection without clips, velcro, or extra hardware.

A-LOCK provides the freedom and flexibility to secure your power connections.
